Assignment Lec (12)

(1) C Program to print all the array elements and the maximum number in array using array of pointers.

(2) C function to swap two numbers using bitwise operation and call it using pointer to function.

(3) you have the words: property, probability, program, process, progress, problem, propagation, performance, perfect, perfume,
Make an autocomplete program, where you ask the user to enter the first letter of his word, then the program tries to predict the word, if it is wrong ask to enter the next character, then again try to predict, until it is right then the program displays the percentage of the input letters out of the whole word.