Assignment Lec(15)

(1) C Program to store information (name, roll and marks) for a student using structure and display it.

(2) C function to add two complex numbers by passing two structure to a function and display the results.

(3) C Function to calculate the difference between two time periods using structures.

(4) C Function to store information (name, id and grade) for 10 students in array of structures using pointers and another function to print all the structures using pointers.